Arrangements have been completed by the Barre Socialist local for the second of the series of lectures being conducted in this city by the New England district lecture league. On Thursday evening, April 16, Miss Anna Maley of New York will appear at the Howland hall and deliver an address upon some current Socialist problem. Miss Maley has been for several years connected with the national lecture league of the Socialist party and is recognized for her ability. Her appearance will make the second of the winter series of lectures, Joseph Hurst of Providence, R. I., speaking in this city two weeks ago.

That the campaign for the Barre City hospital building fund, which starts late this afternoon, has the hearty support of Barre's merchants is being shown in numerous ways these days. One enterprising dry goods dealer on North Main street devotes the entire space in one of his display windows to a hospital exhibit. The window is arranged to represent a hospital ward, and none of the minor details that go to make the exhibit realistic have been neglected. Passersby have been attracted to the window in numbers. All along the business section merchants are making an effort to advertise the campaign quite as thoroughly as though it were a particular brand of their own goods which they were trying to boom.

Examinations for the vacancy in the Barre police force caused by the death of Officer George K. Carle will be held in the council rooms at city hall Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Notices to this effect have been posted by the aldermanic police committee, and the indications are that there will be a number of competitors for the position. Application blanks are available at the office of the city clerk, and already several candidates have signified a desire to compete. The examinations will be conducted by the police committee and the chief of police. They are made out by the committee and corrected by its members. According to the rule usually followed, the three candidates obtaining the best averages in the examination will be considered for the vacancy. From their number one is selected, and the remaining two are placed on the reserve list.

The first step toward the institution of a holy name society at St. Monica's church was taken Sunday evening at the close of the Lenten service, when a large representation of the parishioners of the church gathered in the vestry and outlined plans for the formation of the society. D. M. Miles was elected president. Other officers will be elected at the next meeting to be held. A large attendance is expected to be present at the next meeting when the society will be organized permanently. The Holy Name societies are organizations formed by members of the Catholic church in the cities for the promulgation of means to curb the habit of cursing and swearing. Several other societies have been inaugurated in this state. Last summer under the guidance of Rev. A. C. Griffin a holy name society was organized in the junior ranks of St. Monica's church. The latest movement in St. Monica's church for the senior holy name society finds its sponsor in Rev. Hugh McKenna, curate of the church. The aim of the new society will be to re-organize the junior society and consolidate their interests with those of the seniors.

The second of the series of basketball games between the girls' teams of Spaulding high school and Goddard seminary will be played at the Church street gymnasium this afternoon. The game will start at 4 o'clock. The first game between the two teams was played several weeks ago, resulting in a victory for the Spaulding girls by a close margin.

Vincent Parrizza, who recently relinquished his duties as editor of "The Campana Operario" at Asbury Park, N. J., and New Jersey correspondent for "Voce del Popolo," published in Philadelphia, arrived in the city yesterday to assume his new duties as editor of "The Italian Courier," the initial number of which will be printed early in April.

The annual 40 hours devotion at St. Monica's church was inaugurated this forenoon with the celebration of solemn high mass at 9 o'clock. Rev. Joseph Turcot, pastor of St. Sylvester's church at Granville, officiated at the mass, being assisted by Rev. P. M. McKenna and Rev. Hugh McKenna of St. Monica's church. The devotion will be continued to-night with services at 7 o'clock and will continue until Thursday morning, when the observance will be concluded with solemn high mass at 9 o'clock.

Conductor Parry of the B. & M. Traction & Power Co., who has charge of a Washington street car, and Al. H. Gerhardt, a well known local granite buyer, put themselves in line for recognition this forenoon when they abandoned a northbound car below Willey street and checked the progress of a frenzied horde. Both the conductor and Mr. Gerhardt apparently desecrated the horse at the same instant. The animal, attached to a small red pump, was driving traffic of all kinds and pedestrians along North Main street to the side lines as he came racing down the highway. One or two travelers narrowly escaped the animal's hoofs as he careened from one side of the street to the other. A short distance below, a woman and two children were proceeding slowly toward the city and the danger of a collision was growing alarmingly grave when the conductor and his lone passenger leaped from the car. Each made a grab at the horse's bridle as he swept past and by dint of much exertion the horse was brought to a halt. The pump was somewhat damaged by frequent contact with poles, but the horse escaped injury. A peddler from the house of Israel claimed the outfit just after the conductor had tied the horse to the Willey street bridge.

A Russian Jewess Who Has Found America Her "Promised Land."

In the "Interesting People" department of the March American Magazine Ellery Sedgwick, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, writes an article about Mary Antin, a wonderful young Jewess whose life, begun in a Russian pale, has flowered in twentieth-century America. She is the author of an extraordinary book entitled "The Promised Land" and in this month's American Magazine she begins a series of articles entitled "What Knocked at Our Gates," which the editors declare to be the most remarkable articles they have published in years. Following is an extract from Mr. Sedgwick's characterization: "Mary Antin was twelve years old when she stepped out of the Old Testament into the new world. A Jewish benevolent society made it possible for the family to emigrate to America. The record of that journey, preserved in letters written to her uncle—letters utterly beyond the precocity of any American child—is as romantic as the log of Columbus. Then Boston burst upon her.

Home Industry Wanted. Let us hope that what few licenses are granted in Waterbury will be issued to Waterbury men—not brewery agents or outside men who make it their business to put up the money for the license and are satisfied with some 75 to 90 per cent. of the profit. Now that license is voted, let the thing be run by Waterbury men.—Waterbury Record.
